Synopsis

Filmmaker Michiel van Erp follows Amsterdam inhabitants who struggle with various anxiety disorders, as they attempt to overcome their fears... including a woman who must take really long showers to feel clean, another woman who was kidnapped by a terrorist group years ago and a man who is so terrified of heights, he can't be near his window.

When released in Holland, "Angst" caused quite a commotion and attracted huge crowds. Regular people realized they were dealing with similar problems. "Angst" was sold out for many weeks, as people came face to face with their own mental illness. This film may change the way you see yourself.
