Synopsis

Detective Chung-su takes on a secret mission from the dying president of a big company. The businessman wants to see his first love, one last time, before he checks out. The only information the detective has, is that her name is Kotnim and she lives on an island called Dongbaek.

Chung-su rides a private boat to the island with an anonymous passenger, daydreaming of the big money he'll get when he completes his mission. But a fierce storm shipwrecks the boat and Chung-su and the passenger find themselves lying on the shore of a strange island.

In his struggle to escape the island, Chung-su crosses paths with five grandmothers who will not let him or the other passenger escape. During his captivity, he investigates the grandmothers, to see if one of them is Kotnim. Will he find out and escape from the island alive?
